Eye Most Expressive Feature of the Face—Exercises for the Eyes—There Should Be Fixed Order of Things Everyday for Little Ones—Everyday Etiquette—To Make Gifts for the Baby—Excellent Ways to Prepare Rhubarb.

Gwen Sears.

Exercise for the Eyes.

The eye is the most expressive feature of the face. It is the part of the face through which the soul seems to shine. It is the magnet which draws toward itself all of the varying fascinations of the face. The large part of the beauty of a woman's eyes is under the control of herself.

A set of exercises that will strengthen them and help the eyes in all ways if they are carefully followed. The exercises should be done in the morning only without facing the light. After the eyes have become stronger (which takes about a week) the exercise may be done both morning and night.

Look as far to the left as you can on a direct line with the eyes, then from the left to the right in the same way, never straining the eyes.

These exercises should be done in the morning only without facing the light. After the eyes have become stronger (which takes about a week) the exercise may be done both morning and night.

YOUR BOYS AND GIRLS. A child forms new habits much more easily than an older person, and there is therefore the greater danger of the formation of undesirable habits.

On the other hand, the young child is for the same reason all the more teachable, and can more easily learn good habits. A baby of eleven months, whose mother had carefully watched her development, and had especially guarded against the forming of bad habits was awakened one evening by some noisy visitors.

The following night, she awoke again, and this time she cried until some one came to her. Her mother concluded that she was simply calling for a repetition of the previous evening's amusement, and let her cry for half an hour. Had she been indulged a second and third time it would have been very difficult later to get her back into her regular habits.

The sucking babe can be taught to expect food and a nap at regular intervals just as well as to be allowed to fuss. However, irregular may be the affairs of adults in a household it is very important that there shall be a fixed order of things every day for the little ones to follow.

EVERYDAY ETIQUETTE. "Please tell me if it is proper to use place cards at a birthday party?" was Gladys's inquiry.

"I think it is always well to provide place cards and, if they are cleverly designed, they often afford a way to start conversation," replied her aunt.

GIFTS FOR THE BABY. A baby is quick to recognize the superiority of a celluloid face on a rag doll over the usual painted faces which disfigure the poor creatures.

It is a good thing to lay in a store of these faces when making rag dolls. The face is sewed to the edges of the head where the line is covered by hair or a hood, and is quite pretty. It is fastened with safety pins, any investigating little lips, and is quite the latest thing which Europe has sent over for the decoration of rag dolls. Of course, where metal heads and celluloid faces cannot be had for rag dolls, the features may be put on with a pen or paint brush.

Baby likes bright colored clothes on a doll, and appreciates novelty in dress, such as the little buffoons in their cap and bells. The size of the rag doll and its clothes may be regulated entirely by the sizes of the scraps at hand with which to make it. Sawdust makes a good filling for dolls on which infants are not going to cut their teeth. For the latter, cotton wool and rags are best. For no reason that can be explained, children of nearly all ages dearly love rag dolls, and any woman is capable of making one.

The making of baby rattles has become an art, and the baby's love of color and form is appealed to by rattles in the shape of flowers, birds and animals.

To make a sunflower rattle, cut oblong scraps of white or yellow felt about the length of the finger and not much wider in the middle. One end is pointed and one cut off square. The square ends are pleated in the middle and sewed to a small circle of green felt. One or two rows of similar petals, the inner ones shorter than the outer, are sewed toward the center of the circle. In the middle is laid a small rattle or little sleighbell, and a circle of brown velvet is sewed over this. A larger circle of green felt has a rattle in the middle, and the edges drawn almost together to simulate a bud. The stems are of wire wrapped about the felt.

More than one flower and bud may be made, but this sort of rattle pleases the child, costs next to nothing, and neither wears out nor makes noise enough to annoy grown people. A tiny box with shot or pebbles inside will do for the rattle inside the flowers.

SOME NICE WAYS TO USE RHUBARB.

Rhubarb can be made useful when it is found that the supplies of home made preserves are running short. One has only to make six pounds of rhubarb into jam in the usual way and then add a two-pound jar of raspberry or strawberry preserve to the jam just made, and the whole will take the flavor from the added preserve. The same rule applies in the early season when fruit is dear.

Rhubarb sponge is made as follows: Stew two pounds of rhubarb in a little water with one-quarter pound of loaf sugar until tender, then rub through a sieve (a strainer of lemon pulp may be cooked with it if liked). Dissolve one ounce of leaf gelatin in one-half pint of water and when dissolved put to the strained rhubarb juice, making one point altogether. When cool add the whites of two eggs and whisk together until quite stiff. Then pile in a glass dish and serve with whipped cream on top. The yolks of the eggs might be made into a boiled custard with half a pint of milk, with flavoring and sugar to taste, and served in custard cups.

The red rhubarb is best for rhubarb mold. Cut one quart in pieces and put into a stewpan with a little water, but keep the lid on and let it boil until it is in a pulp. Soak half an ounce of gelatin in cold water to dissolve it.

Then add this to the rhubarb with one pound of sifted sugar; let it boil fifteen minutes. A few drops of essence of lemon give it a nice flavor. Butter a mold and pour in the rhubarb. Next day dip the mold in hot water for a second and turn the rhubarb on a glass dish. Serve with whipped cream or boiled custard flavored with almonds.

To make rhubarb Charlotte, butter a pie dish and cover the bottom with dry bread crumbs. Put over this a layer of the early forced rhubarb, cut in lengths the size of the dish, sprinkle with sugar and then add another layer of crumbs, proceed in this way until the dish is full, having the last ayer crumbs. Before the last layer of crumbs is put on it is an improvement to spread over the rhubarb a little warmed golden syrup. Put bits of butter over the top and bake with a plate over it for half an hour. Remove the plate and let it brown before serving; use only half the quantity of crumbs that you do of fruit. Serve a small pitcher of either plain or clotted cream with it.

One Cent Letter Postage Being Agitated

One cent postage rate on letters is again being brought into prominence and many high officials declare that it is sure to come in the near future. All classes of business would be greatly benefited by its adoption, and estimated statistics show there would be such an increased demand for stamps that the apparent loss of revenue would be more than made up.

It is an impossibility to place an estimated value on health, it being a most priceless possession—but, perhaps, you have been careless or negligent and have allowed weakness to develop until you are now in a badly run-down condition, with poor appetite, impaired digestion and constipated bowels.

In order to get back to health and strength you must first help Nature restore the Stomach, Liver and Bowels to a normal condition. This suggests the friendly aid of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. You will find it an excellent tonic, appetizer and strength maker and well worthy of your confidence.

It is an absolutely pure medicine, adapted to all ordinary family ailments, and your health will be greatly improved by giving it a fair trial at once. Be sure you get the genuine Hostetter's Stomach Bitters with our Private Stamp over the neck of the bottle—Advertisement.

ROCKEFELLERS IN BAD LIGHT

Kansas City, April 23.—Information contained in letters and telegrams passing between John D. Rockefeller, Jr., and officers of the Colorado Fuel & Iron company, made public here tonight by Frank P. Walsh, chairman of the federal industrial relations commission, caused Mr. Walsh to announce that the hearing concerning the coal miners' strike in Colorado would be reopened and Mr. Rockefeller recalled to the witness stand.

Besides Mr. Rockefeller there will be called to testify J. F. Velsborn, president of the Colorado Fuel & Iron company; L. M. Bowers, chairman of the company's executive committee, and Ivy Lee, Mr. Rockefeller's publicity agent. The hearing will open in Washington, May 4, Mr. Walsh said.

The correspondence was obtained by Mr. Walsh from Mr. Rockefeller's New York office in compliance with a demand of the commission. It was not forthcoming, Mr. Walsh announced, in time for its contents to be used at the recent hearing in New York, and he considered the information contained in it of a character to warrant the reopening of the hearings.

"The commission has today made as a part of its record," Mr. Walsh said tonight, "a mass of correspondence not only showing that the Rockefeller were in constant touch with every phase of the Colorado coal strike situation, but they knew the strike was coming and were prepared for it."

Mr. Rockefeller testified at the hearing of the commission in New York and also before the congressional investigating commission that he had kept his hands off the strike situation and had no knowledge of conditions in the coal fields.

The letters and telegrams which we have today filed in the record make it plain that every step taken by the strike was taken with the knowledge and assent of Mr. Rockefeller's office in New York.

are of importance. In a letter to Mr. Rockefeller he writes:

"The strike situation has brought to the front an issue which will secure the attention, and, I believe, the country, regardless of political affiliations—to force candidates for office to come out in the open and declare their attitude toward the rights of employers and employees to run open shop. We all know that the politicians have been giving organized labor shops for the purpose of securing their votes. I believe there is no man in either the Republican or Democratic party who would dare come out in opposition to the open shop."

"Another amazing revelation in this correspondence is that contained in letters exchanged by Mr. Rockefeller and Mr. Lee, his publicity agent, at the time Governor Ammons was acting in the strike adjustment. The letters deal first with the desires and plans of the Rockefeller to get their side of the question before President Wilson.

"In Belgium the surprise caused by asphyxiating bombs used by the Germans to the north of Ypres had no grave consequences.

"Our counter attacks, vigorously supported by British troops on our right, and also by Belgian troops on our left, was developed with success. The Anglo-French troops gained ground toward the north between Steenstraete and the Ypres-Poel Capelle road. Our allies took prisoners belonging to three different regiments.

"In Champagne at Reims, we demolished an enemy gun protected by a casement which was enfilading our trenches.

"On the heights of the Meuse the enemy essayed three attacks, at the Calonne trench, at Les Eparges and near Combres. These were immediately stopped.

"In the forest at the 'Cow's head' our progress was continued. We found in the captured trenches about 200 dead Germans. Our artillery blew up two ammunition depots, and a company of German infantry in the vicinity was entirely annihilated. We captured a trench mortar, a machine gun and some material.

Paris, via London, April 23, 11:45 p. m.—The French official statement regarding the fighting in the western theater of the war was given out here tonight:

ANACONDA STRIKES RICH ORE BODY

Butte, Mont., April 23.—Mining men who know the depth in mining operations in the Butte district meant the development of richer ore bodies were amazed by the statement of B. H. Dunshee, assistant superintendent of the Anaconda company, that operations in the 2,800-foot level of the Stewart mine had opened up what is said to be the finest body of high-grade copper ore that has ever been discovered in the Butte district. On this level engineers have uncovered a vein of remarkably high-grade ore. Its width is twenty feet. This statement was made at a meeting called to devise ways and means to promote the exploration of the camp's possibilities and to encourage private companies in developing properties.

The Anaconda company is going right ahead to increase its production and the only large mines not hoisting now are those which are not in shape. Work is being pushed to enable the company to get more ore out.

The annual report of the North Butte for the year 1914 shows that the net income was $358,215, while the total earnings were $3,084,774. There was paid out in dividends $625,000, making it necessary to draw on the surplus for $227,000 to meet the dividend requirements.

President Cole announces a plan to explore the company's east side properties and develop them during the coming year. Suitable ground for an ore-treating plant with ample water rights has been purchased, as the additional mineral area and advancement in extracting an increased percentage of minerals from the Butte ores made this advisable. The discovery of high-grade ore on the 2,800-foot level of the Snowball vein proves the persistence of high-grade ore at these depths.

MRS. MARRIOTT DIES. Osceola, Nev., April 23.—The death of Mrs. James H. Marriott of this city occurred at her home Friday morning, April 16. Mrs. Marriott had been a sufferer for eight years. During the past year she commenced to grow much worse through valvular heart trouble coming as an after effect of inflammatory rheumatism, from which she suffered so long.

She was a native of California and came to Osceola about thirty years ago with her husband, who came at that time to take charge of the operations of the Osceola Placer Mining company, and has lived here ever since.

Besides her husband she leaves to mourn her loss a family of five children, all grown—Ethel, Henry, Earl, Albert, Chester—and two step-children, Mrs. George Doyle and Lee R. Marriott.
